

National Forest

This is an aerial photograph of a forested area, likely a National Forest. The image is overlaid with several colored lines: a thick cyan line forming a large, irregular boundary; a thin blue line following a winding path or stream; and a yellow line that appears to be a road or a different type of boundary. The terrain is covered in dense green forest, with some areas showing lighter brown patches, possibly indicating cleared land or different vegetation types. The text 'National Forest' is written in a red, italicized font in the upper left corner.
