ACCESS. PRIVATE AIRSTRIP

For those who prefer to travel by air, Fossil Creek features its own private 5,378± foot lighted and paved landing strip built to accommodate a range of aircraft with ease. Whether you're flying in for the weekend or welcoming guests from afar, this private runway makes arrivals and departures as seamless as it is impressive.

IMPROVED INTERIOR RANCH ROADS & TRAILS

Access to and through the ranch couldn't be more convenient. With just over a mile of paved county road frontage on County Road 416, three gated entrances, and a well-designed network of improved interior roads, the road system throughout the property makes it easy to navigate and manage the land. Whether you are checking livestock, heading to the lodge, establishing a game operation, running guided hunts or simply exploring the far reaches of the ranch, it is a setup that combines convenience, security, and functionality—exactly what you'd expect from a property of this caliber.

LAND. PURE TEXAS HILL COUNTRY

The ranch showcases some of the most dynamic and beautiful Hill Country topography you'll find anywhere. From rugged, scenic ridgelines and steep mountain slopes to gently rolling pastures and rich bottomland along Lake Creek, the landscape is as diverse as it is striking. Elevations range from about 1,318 to over 2,050 feet, creating endless views, incredible building sites, and classic Hill Country character.

SUMMARY. Encompassing approximately 2,541.86± acres, Fossil Creek Ranch wraps around the northern edge of the tranquil Lake Creek valley with rolling hills, scenic ridges, rich bottomland, deep draws and far-reaching vistas.

The ranch features 5,378± feet of privately owned, asphalt-paved, and lighted runway, ready to accommodate nearly any aircraft you choose to fly in. A double hangar with pilot's lounge and covered parking sits just off the strip offering convenience and comfort from touchdown to takeoff. Arriving for a quick visit or an extended stay, the fly-in-fly-out access is first-class functionality right on the ranch.

Massive concrete drive-across dams back up the water creating and showcasing acres of stunning, crystal-clear water, framed by limestone ledges and ancient hardwoods. The waterway is exclusive, private and does not grant public access.

The live water is a defining feature of the ranch that flows continuously through the heart of the ranch, stretching roughly three (3±) miles from end-to-end, including both sides along its course. Beyond the main lakes, there are three additional spring-fed pools—two that have flowed continuously and one that runs seasonally.

The ranch is well-watered with five functional shallow wells, including an irrigation well with 510± acre-feet of permitted water rights that can be utilized to maintain lake levels and sustain a pecan orchard near the lower lake.

Welcoming improvements including a native stone lodge and guesthouses are nestled along Lake Creek—visually stunning and accommodating to a significant number of guests.

A hunter and angler's dream! The ranch is fully high-fenced and home to genetically improved wildlife including white-tailed deer, Axis, Blackbuck, Aoudad, Sika, and Fallow deer, making for incredible hunting opportunities season after season. For the fishermen, the lakes are stocked and ready year-round. Plus, with an on-site processing facility and a walk-in cooler, you've got everything you need to enjoy the full outdoor experience from field (or lake) to table.

There's no shortage of exceptional features that make Fossil Creek Ranch truly one of a kind—but words can only do so much justice. This is one you simply have to see to believe.

WATER.

Water across the ranch is supplied by five wells strategically located throughout the property, each equipped with submersible pumps — one powered by solar. Every well feeds into a system of storage tanks, pipelines, and troughs that efficiently distribute water to various areas for domestic wildlife and livestock use. An irrigation well sits on a 100' x 100' plot west of County Road 416, accessed by a 15-foot easement. This well is permitted for an impressive 510± acre-feet of groundwater rights through the Uvalde County Water Conservation District and features a 10 HP submersible pump. Piping is already in place to move water from the west side of the road to the east, providing irrigation for small fields and helping sustain three picturesque spring-fed lakes with concrete and earthen dams. These lakes lie along the scenic Lake Creek, which winds gracefully through the property for nearly 3 miles — adding natural beauty, reliable surface water and endless recreational opportunities to this exceptional ranch.

VEGETATION. The ranch showcases a diverse mix of Hill Country vegetation, thoughtfully balanced between open pastures and dense native cover. Strategic clearing provides ideal grazing areas, while heavily wooded sections offer incredible habitat for wildlife seeking food and shelter. Scenic overlooks and rugged limestone ledges rise above the creek—perfect for the adventurous spirit who might fancy a high dive into the deep, clear water below. You'll find a beautiful array of native species throughout the ranch, including live oak, blue oak, shin oak, Spanish oak, guajillo, buckeye, mountain laurel, elm, piñon pine, Texas sotol, and countless others that make this live water ranch landscape so rich and inviting.
